

Weekly Learning Reflections

Week Beginning:

Happy Friday 😊

Another fantastic learning week this week in class Astute!

We have started our new English unit on poetry, where so far, we've explored the poems 'The School Kid's Rap', 'Louder' and 'Word of a Lie' – all of which carry a similar humorous theme that the children loved. We then practised using expression, tone and volume to perform them in a way that engages the audience. Today, we had a closer look at 'Word of a Lie' to identify structure and repetition. The children then created their own lines in the same style and structure and performed them today! It would be great for you to listen to them next Monday morning, so please ask your children if they would like to perform them to you 😊

In maths, the children have returned to geometry – this time, focusing on angles and learning to identify and compare angles. We also explored shape, turns and clockwise/anticlockwise. Well done Astute for your perseverance as we did find this a little tricky.

In Music, we have been putting together our skills of strumming, plucking and keeping in time to learn and play new songs. The children have also practised playing in unison with one another and are now rehearsing a song to perform as a class to the rest of the school at the end of the term.

And now for the stars of the week

Teacher star goes to Owen for showing an amazing attitude towards his learning and our school values. Owen has been working incredibly hard this week across all subjects and challenging himself when exploring something new. Well done Owen!

Class star of the week goes to Lily D for her perseverance! Lily is a resilient learner who will always try her best when faced with a new tricky problem. Lily is also a great team player and will help her peers when they need support. Well done Lily!

I hope you have a wonderful weekend.
