The AMAZING baby
goblin lived from 1827-1846 so he only lived 19 years.
That small creature got his cool name of
"goblin" because wild the goblin was the goblin
I got it!

Newspaper report
Yesterday evening at 12:05 Mount Etna erupted in Italy and it was late evening and bright!
First My Neighbor 2 doors down realized it they shouted "I was horrified, it was so scary that I had to run the first minute!" they exclaimed
They saw that it was so close to us.
It was scary, I told people "Quickly Quick! Run!"
I shouted, everyone saw it and some people scattered to move. The lava flowed absolutely everywhere.
Now people left their homes even more. If they didn't leave they would probably die.
I started to destroy the hotel the hole town. People were screaming.
Some people died that more died and more!
People had to run very fast!

In the rainforest

Neon toucans glapped lazily through the understory.

Filled with hunger and desperation, jaguars pounced on its prey, from the satin undergrowth.

The Amazon rainforest stunk, with the bubbling mud that made the air gag horribly.

led with hunger and desperation, jaguars proudly leapt out from deep within the lush, evergreen moss.

Leaves waved in the humid air.

Paragraph one:

Leaves waved in the damp and humid air, as the helpless leaves glowed downwards, catching from their mossy branches. The evergreen trees reflected against the dawn. Birds chirped suddenly, turning into a morning sky. Robins flew gracefully from mangrove tree to mangrove tree, saying gently in the air which smells of ming roses. Neon toucans glapped through the pale blue sky, layered on mist, as grey as a crane.

Paragraph two:

The Hanging lazily from the trees, brown-as-mud stalks snored, blowing the small tuft of hair under their chin. As birds flew over the treetops, intimidating predators like the gorilla-pounced on unsuspecting prey for breakfast. Monkeys swung from branch to branch like gymnasts on the uneven bars. Beetles scurried up and down towering trees like the floor was lava. Filled with hunger and desperation, jaguars proudly leapt out from deep within the lush, evergreen moss. Without any difficulty, the jaguars also caught and devoured their small, weak prey. The Amazon Rainforest truly is mystical!

Paragraph three:

As frogs bounded from lily pad from somewhere within the rainforest, a satin green azalea ~~with~~ shook suddenly, putting all creatures on high alert. Toucans retreated to their trees, bugs hid under big mammoth-to them-stones and frogs returned to the pond. Emerging from the bush, an explorer ~~revealed~~: Her long hair ~~of brown~~ vibrantly ~~tailed~~ against the golden sun. She carefully picked up an old map, as she pushed her gold glasses up her nose. The cascading waterfall smashed against the silver lagoon, drenching her and her map. Oh no! Desperately she picked being soaked, it pressed through onto a leaf. She let out a small yelp as she felt something on her ponytail. Alerted, she smacked it off. It was only a petal from a tulip. A tulip so high up in the canopy. She looked around, finally taking in the sight. It was truly wonderful.
