

Weekly Learning Reflections

Week Beginning: 11 November 2024

Week two of the half-term complete and it has been another successful week with the children challenging themselves to continue the half-term in a positive manner. It has been great to see their determination and enthusiasm continuing to shine through.

Taking on the role of biographers, the children have spent time writing about a person who has inspired them. It has been fantastic to see the wide variety of people the children have chosen and I have learned so much through reading the biographies. The children have written well, informed and engaged so excellent work to all of them!

Continuing to focus on money, the children had to add and subtract money in order to find totals and the correct amount of change. They have used varying methods such as number lines and it has been really pleasing to see their confidence grow as the week has gone on.

Through our curriculum we delved deep into the Amazon to discover what each layer is like before exploring the world of Amazon tribes to determine how they live at one with the rainforest. We also made our own sculptures in Art before becoming electricians to test circuits and find ways of fixing ones that didn't work. A great week all round and well done to all the children!

Pupil Star of the Week - ★ Eliza ★

I asked the children to focus on evaluation and determination this week. Eliza was nominated as the class star as the children recognised her willingness to listen and always seeking ways to improve. A very deserved win as Eliza consistently takes on board advice and is always looking at how she can improve in her learning. Well done Eliza, you have had a fantastic week!

Teacher Star of the Week - ★ Chase ★

My Star of the Week this week is Chase! Continuing the theme of evaluation, Chase has shown his desire to improve and work hard in order to be the best he can. He has challenged himself to improve in his learning as well as attitude and has had a great week as a result. You've worked really hard this week Chase, keep up the fantastic attitude!
