

Weekly Learning Reflections

Week Beginning: 29.11.24

Dear Parents and Guardians,

Thank you for coming into school to look at your children's work during this week's opening morning. It was good to see you sharing treasured moments. The children's excitement to show their work was crystal clear from the spark in their eyes, and the sparkle in their voices.

If you were unable to attend, don't worry as further opening mornings are scheduled for later this year.

This week the children have been hard at work. They have completed their end-of-term maths and English assessments. I am so proud of all the effort they put into their work.

Geography

Threats to the Amazon rainforest ignited a sense of all is not right with the world. The children learned cheap grazing land for rearing cattle for outlets ranging from haute cuisine to burger bars is a chief cause for felling hardwood giants that took hundreds of years to grow yet minutes to be razed to the ground. Trimming meat from diets, and kicking the polluting habit of burning fossil fuels when taking the car on short journeys led to a discursive discussion on how we can play our part. There are some things too valuable to lose for short term hedonism we concluded.

PE

Jump, twist, land and hold. The children have been developing their skills to jump in gymnastics and land without a wobble. They are also weaving in a balance into their routine which they developed last week. I have been impressed with the children for using their will power and hold their poise for a climatic finish.

Music

Vibrant Samba music filled the classroom as the children used percussion instrument to play a rhythm. In house groups, they played different sections of music under the direction of the class conductors took it in turn to orchestrate and layer music.

Stars of the week

The children have chosen Nervaan and Ruby-May as stars of the week for being super, kind friends.

Teacher Star of the Week

This week's shining A* star is Jenson.

He worked to his personal standard and challenged himself to great things of himself.

I hope you have a super weekend with your loved ones.

Kind regards,

Amarjit
