

Weekly Learning Reflections

Happy Friday 😊

Where have these past 5 weeks gone? It is hard to believe that we are at the penultimate week of Spring 1 term already! What a busy but really enjoyable half term it has been.

This week in English, the children have now written their narratives and published in neat. It has been a very enjoyable writing unit and we have been blown away by the use of powerful and imaginative language and vocabulary to create Razavani's back story. Well done class Radiant.

In maths this week we learnt about different angles and types of lines. We rounded off our maths by completing our big problem by playing shapeology. The children thoroughly enjoyed showcasing their understanding.

In other news we also welcomed Mrs Kennett who pop in for the day to meet the classes. It was lovely to see Mrs Kennett and the children are looking forward to being taught by her on a Thursday and Friday.

Stars of the week

Last week the Child Star of the week was missed therefore we voted Ella for week commencing 27.01.25. Ella was chosen last week as she always works hard and is an excellent member of Astute class. The other children noted her efforts with independence and the ability to challenge herself as well as her fantastic cooperation and collaboration skills.

This week's Star of the week went to Brody. Brody was nominated for being a kind friend and a supportive classmate. Brody is a very successful collaborator and will always make sure he can offer help to others. Well done Brody!

The teacher Star of the Week is Riley who nearly ended up with a double whammy star of the week as he was also a nominee for class star of the week but lost out in the blind vote. However, I had already chosen him for teacher star as it has been excellent to see him challenge himself across all areas of learning this week. I also loved his creative thinking in English this week with writing Razvani's origin story.

Have a lovely weekend, Miss Hunt, Mrs Kennett and Mrs Wigmore
