

Weekly Learning Reflections

Week Beginning: 03 February 2025

One more week complete and Victory have once again shown great perseverance and determination in their learning. They have all worked hard to produce their best work and have challenged themselves to reach new goals.

Our English focus this week has been designing our wands for Ollivander and planning our persuasive letter to go with them. The children have shown great creativity in their ideas and it is great to see many different options for Ollivander to choose from.

Division has been the focus for Maths with the children challenged to use their times table knowledge to work out division questions. I have been thoroughly impressed with the children using concrete resources to help them with their accuracy.

The afternoons have continued at pace, exploring whether Alfred the Great was really a great king before beginning to present their knowledge about online safety. The children have also explored what impacts the rate of evaporation in Science before finishing the week practising the bass line to 'Rock Around the Clock' and creating a states of matter dance routine.

Pupil Star of the Week - ★ James R ★

James R was the children's choice for Class Star this week. The children were asked to focus on independence and perseverance and they recognised that James is always able to find ways to support himself if needed. They also recognised that James continues to push himself even when faced with tricky tasks and never gives up. Well done James, an excellent week from you!

Teacher Star of the Week - ★ Holly ★

My Star of the Week this week is Holly! This week Holly has challenged herself to improve in her learning and pushed herself to achieve her best. She has shown good determination and a willingness to listen in order to improve which has helped her to be more successful. Well done Holly, you've had a fantastic week!
